

Beware Any Homosexual Agendas In Public Schools!

by Wayne Goff

Homosexual activist groups are trying to make inroads to our public schools in order to teach children a pro-homosexual lifestyle at the earliest age possible. Most parents would be opposed to their children being taught such things, therefore they disguise their doctrine under such titles as “safe school initiatives” or “anti-bullying programs.” Under these titles, homosexual lessons are being taught and sometimes even include graphic information. If you find your public school is teaching these things, then schedule a meeting with your child’s teacher to explain what the New Testament teaches, and also meet with the school principal to complain about these things. Public education should not be advocating immoral teaching, but should be focusing on the three R’s. Also, if you run into this problem at your school, let me know and I will provide you with more information about how to deal with this issue.

Parents, you must be proactive in your child’s education. Discuss with them regularly the things being taught. Meet with the teachers on teacher’s night and do not be afraid to discuss these moral issues and why you are opposed to them. Respect those who believe and teach contrary to Christianity, but do not compromise.

For home schoolers, be sure you learn and educate your children on what is going on morally in our society today and begin preparing your children for adulthood and the coming work place.

It is shocking to see and hear what is going on in our country today, and Christians cannot afford to take a back seat while some in our country are using every means to destroy moral values. Pray for our country. Pray for our society. Pray that something will be said or done to change the current environment in which we live! Always speak the truth in love, Eph. 4:15.
