

Five Ingredients for Raising Children {concluded}

by Wayne Goff

Make Them Do Chores

Julie Lythcott-Haims, dean of freshmen at Stanford University, and author of the NY Times bestseller, How to Raise an Adult, discovered that people need two things to be successful in life: love and a work ethic.

So how do you develop a work ethic in young children? By making them do chores – they realize the importance of work in life in order to succeed. Doing dishes, mowing the lawn, taking out the garbage, walking the dog, cleaning their rooms – all the things that children balk at and parents have to nag them about. But it's worth the effort, parents. The happiest children I see around the country when I go to Gospel Meetings are children who have been trained to work hard and well. "For even when we were with you, we commanded you this: If anyone will not work, neither shall he eat" (2 Thessalonians 3:10). Now why is that not also true for our children?

There is a reason God gave children parents. To train them in life and in the way of the Lord. Yes, it's easier to just let them "grow up" without any training. But it's just plain wrong, Proverbs 22:6; Ephesians 6:1-4.

To Help Us Pray More Often & Better

by Bill Crews

To help us pray more often than we do, and better than we do, we need:

- 1. A great sense of God's presence, Psalm 139:7-12; Acts 17:27 – we should want to speak to those who are present.
- 2. A greater love for God, Matthew 22:36-37; 1 John 5:3 – we should want to talk to those we love.
- 3. More diligent study of the Word of God, Psalm 2:2; Colossians 3:16 – the more we listen to God, the more we have to say to Him.
- 4. A greater faith in the efficacy of prayer, Matthew 7:7-8; James 5:16-17 – faith leads to prayer, and we must pray in faith, James 1:5-6; Mark 11:24.
- 5. A deeper sense of our own sins, weaknesses, limitations and needs, James 5:13; 1 John 1:9; James 4:2-3 – arrogant, self-righteous, self-sufficient, impenitent people are not praying people. Humble, convicted, penitent, trusting people are praying people.
- 6. More gratitude for God's abundant blessings, James 1:17; Acts 17:24-25 – grateful people give thanks for their blessings.
- 7. A greater awareness of our utter dependency upon God, Acts 17:28; Job 12:10 – this will lead us to be submissive, lowly, petitioning people.
